Title : The Girl Song (Acoustic)

Lyrics :

Since the last great song I wrote
Back when I was old, and unflattered
You stripped on that red striped sweater
Neatly stitched in like a scarlet letter
Did you hear I'm moving to Denver?
In November?
My last chance to forget her

Since the last great I love I ruined
Back when I was only a teen, just seventeen
We all make mistakes and that's a fact, not a debate
"Now that things come down to fate, life's play"
I heard him say
I heard she left in September
Well god damn, I made up that lie about Denver
Well at least I get to forget her
Till December, when her folks go get her

But I feel lucky
Just knowing you're breathing the same atmosphere As me
And this world is crazy
So forgive me, I just want to be happy
And the last great road I walked on tonight
You're beautiful inside
You're beautiful inside

Since the last great bonds I broke
When I was home, I've been alone
I took the long way home and put on our song
And we sang along
But I heard you were singing for quarters on the Corners
And getting lost in Autumn
But that night our lips met in Summer
My mom smiled and says to me, "Daniel go get her"

And I feel lucky
Just knowing you're breathing the same atmosphere as me
And this world is crazy
So forgive me, I just want to be happy
And the last great road I walked on tonight
You're beautiful inside

And you looked at me and said
"Daniel are you kidding me? We haven't spoken since Summer of 2003"
When you're living and loving
And I haven't forgotten about the night time kissing
The best friend that I've been missing

That I've been missing

And I feel lucky

Just knowing you're breathing the same atmosphere as me

And this world is crazy

So forgive me, I just want to be happy

And the last great road I walked on tonight

You're beautiful inside

Beautiful inside..
